MONTANA CANVASS.

Republican Gains as the Montana Canvass Progresses

Votes of Several Precincts Thrown Out by the Board.

Claims that the Democrats May Lose the Legislature.

The Courts will be Appealed to to Decide the Question.

Throwing Out Votes.

HELENA, Mont., October 14.—The Independent (democratic) says: The canvassers in Silver Bow county to-day threw out the vote in what is known as the railroad precinct which gave a democratic majority of 174. This action if upheld by the courts will seat the entire republican delegation from that county. The eleven members would overcome the democratic majority in the legislature and give the republicans control of that body. The democratic managers will ask for a writ of mandamus to compel the canvassers to count the rejected precincts' vote. Throwing out this vote, while reducing Toole's vote for governor, does not overcome his majority.

The members of the democratic state committee feel confident that an order will be issued by the judge, compelling the canvassers to count the vote, as the supreme court several years ago decided that if votes are legally cast the fact that a less number of judges than provided by law presided at the election does not make the returns void.

ST. PAUL, October 14.—A Pioneer Press special from Helena, Mont., says: The news from Butte that the canvassing board has thrown out the railroad district vote was received here with joy by the republicans, because if sustained by the courts it will insure republican control of the legislature. As the returns are now declared the legislature stands: Senate, republicans 8, democrats 8; house of representatives, republicans 30, democrats 25.

Must Come Down.

NEW YORK, October 14.—It has been decided that all electric light wires above ground must go. No injunction can be served on the board of health unless eight days' notice is given, and should the court grant an injunction against the mayor the [illegible] board of health will take the matter in hand and before the eight days expire not a wire will be left above ground.

The supreme court being occupied with other cases the argument on the injunction was postponed until to-morrow. Counsel for the United States and Brush companies announce that meanwhile the current would be shut off from a large number of their circuits so no danger would exist. As a result a large section of the city is in darkness to-night, all the electric lights south of Fifty-ninth street being cut off and the time having been too short to arrange for the lighting of thousands of gas lamps which have fallen into disuse since the introduction of electricity. Madison Square and Union Square parks, around which the life of the city clusters at night, are shrouded in almost impenetrable gloom. Rain was falling and a gloomy sky served to intensify the darkness. The police patrol has been doubled in many parts of the city.

Robbing Emerson's Grave.

CONCORD, Mass., October 14.—Yesterday afternoon while attending a burial at Sleepy Hollow cemetery, two gentlemen discovered that the grave of Ralph Waldo Emerson had been disturbed. The authorities were notified and found that the grave had been opened on Saturday night exposing the casket. Whether the remains have been taken out or not is not known at present, as the authorities are waiting the return of Dr. Edward Emerson, the philosopher's son, who has been telegraphed for. A watch was at once placed at the grave, but the general opinion here is that the miscreants accomplished their object and secured at least the skull, which was probably what they were after. There is great indignation over the affair.

LATER—The family have been satisfied that the body has not been disturbed and wish no further investigation. A heavy masonry tomb will be constructed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., October 14.—Last summer W. J. Brewster, a wealthy capitalist of this city, bought what he believed to be a valuable mine in Arizona for $15,000 cash from John Bull of this city and Frank Pine, the noted confidence man who now lies at the point of death in Denver and who was known to Mr. Brewster as E. H. Hall. Mr. Brewster now alleges that there is no such mine in existence as the one sold to him and he has brought suit against Bull and Pine to recover the amount of the purchase price. Interest was added to the case when a supplemental suit was filed to-day making City Auditor S. B. Winram, a party to the case. Mr. Winram claims that the only part he took in the transaction was to introduce Hall to Mr. Brewster. He did not know that Hall was dishonest.

Wiman's Dinner.

BUFFALO, October 14.—Wm. E. Curtis, manager of the Pan-American excursion, is much exercised over the results of Erastus Wiman's dinner to the delegates at Niagara Falls last night. Curtis says that Wiman was one of the committee [illegible] at New York and subsequently asked that he be allowed to give the delegates a dinner at Niagara Falls. Curtis replied that Blaine's instructions were that no formalities be entered upon on Sunday during the trip and that the delegates should be allowed to do as they liked on that day. Finally it was arranged that Wiman should give a dinner, but that it should be entirely informal and that there should be no speeches. Curtis says that notwithstanding this Wiman left copies of his proposed speech with the newspapers in New York before leaving. Curtis this morning telegraphed Blaine that Wiman had acted in bad faith.

The party reached here from Niagara Falls this morning and were driven in carriages to the city hall, where they were received by the mayor and others, who drove them about the city.

Towing a Disabled Steamer.

NEW YORK, October 14.—The steamer Gellert arrived this morning from Hamburg, towing the disabled steamer Italia from the same port.

The Episcopal Convention.

NEW YORK, October 14.—In the Episcopal convention this morning a number of matters were brought up but no action taken on any of them.

Lynched for His Crime.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., October 14.—Robert Barrar was taken from the jail at Lexington and lynched to-night. He murdered his mother-in-law last week.

Killed by an Explosion.

BUCYRUS, Ohio, October 14.—John Howard, engineer, and Frank Raiser and Edward Hainlan were instantly killed this morning by the explosion of a boiler in Heinlan's sorghum mills.

Cracker Bakers Strike.

NEWARK, N. J., October 14.—A strike occurred to-day among the journeymen bakers employed at Titus' cracker bakery. It is expected that the strike will extend all over the city and throw 500 men out of employment.

Moves Up [illegible].

SAN FRANCISCO, October 14.—J. C. Stubbs, general traffic manager of the Southern Pacific company, has resigned to accept the appointment of second vice president of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad.

Asks for Damages.

PARIS, October 14.—The Rio Tinto Mining company has brought action against the Societe Des Metaux for damages for the non fulfillment of contract. It asks a deposit of $5,000,000 to be made pending the settlement of the suit.

Admitted to Practice.

WASHINGTON, October 14.—The following attorneys has been admitted to practice before the supreme court: Joseph P. Kelly of San Francisco, Robert T. Devlin of Sacramento, James D. Page of San Francisco and J. Wallace Mills of Denver.

A Grand Army Defaulter.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., October 14.—A sensation has been created by the discovery of a deficiency of $10,000 in the accounts of Wm. H. Stowe, quartermaster of Admiral Foote post G. A. R. Stowe has been quartermaster for seven years and stood high in business and social circles.

[illegible]

PHILADELPHIA, October 14.—Clark & Keen, manufacturers of worsted, made an assignment to-day. The liabilities are unknown but it is said the principal burden falls on the banks that have discounted the firm's paper. The five hundred hands employed by the firm are thrown out of work.

Bismarck and the Czar.

BERLIN, October 14.—Bismarck had a final, prolonged and extremely amicable interview with the czar at the Russian embassy yesterday afternoon and Emperor William seizing the first chance of learning the result of the interview, drove with Bismarck back to the chancellor's residence.

[illegible] the [illegible]

AUCKLAND, October 14.—Dispatches from Samoa say that a public meeting was held there for the election of a king. All the foreign consuls attended. Malietoa made an address in which he praised Mataafa and advised the people to elect him their king, as for himself he was content to be vice king. It is understood that Germany will refuse to recognize Mataafa.

[illegible]

LONDON, October 14.—The socialists feel a grim satisfaction in every incident which increases the discomfiture of the rank and file of any of the anti-socialist armies with their instruments. The recent strike of the dock laborers at Hamburg was quickly crushed by the authorities, who put the soldiers at work loading and unloading the ships in the strikers' places, and the strike of bakers in Berlin was recently crushed by the same methods, bakers having been detailed from the ranks of the army to take the places of the men who had quit work, and the latter [illegible]. The soldiers do not obey such orders willingly, and there are only so many items added to the long account which the down-trodden masses are patiently awaiting an opportunity to settle.

[illegible]

PHILADELPHIA, October 14.—One of the most important labor conferences for a long time convened to-day in this city. It comprises the presiding officers and the general executive boards of the Knights of Labor and American Federation of Labor. All were present except Powderly, who will be here before the conference is concluded. They will consider the eight-hour movement. The Federation wants the Knights to join in a general demand for a short day on May 1st, while it is said that Powderly would like to have action deferred until after the session of the general assembly next [illegible].

The present condition of the eight-hour movement received full discussion at the conference. The knights agreed to practically indorse the Federation in the action of the general assembly. The relations of the two organizations were discussed with a view to harmonizing the interests and preventing future conflicts. The knights proposed mutual exchange of working cards, mutual recognition of labels and [illegible] as a rule to prevent one body from accepting suspended or expelled members of the other.

An Earl's Brutality.

EDINBURGH, October 14.—The earl of Galloway was arraigned this morning at Dumfries on the charge of having made an indecent assault upon a child. The court was crowded with leading people of the community. The little girl gave testimony in regard to the actions of the earl's offense and her testimony was corroborated by other witnesses. A statement prepared by the defendant was then read in which the explanation [illegible] was committed. In helping the child off a wall the earl's hand had accidentally come into improper contact with her person. The earl was acquitted.

The guilt of the accused seemed so clearly established that the persons in the court room, many of whom were friends of the little girl, whom the aged nobleman was charged with abusing, took no pains to conceal their disgust with the verdict. The announcement of the verdict was the signal for loud expressions of disapproval from the benches where the spectators were seated, and the frowns and threats of the presiding judge were of no avail to suppress the cries of "shame" "shame" uttered by dozens of indignant people. In London the news of the verdict was received with great indignation among the common people, who pointed out that had the accused been anything but a great nobleman the evidence against him would have been enough to convict him a dozen times over.

THE ATCHISON PLAN.

Official Announcement of the Reorganization Plan.

A New Scheme to Save the Company from Bankruptcy

Latest Developments in the Jury Bribing Conspiracy.

The Man who Was to Have Furnished the Funds Found.

The Atchison's New Plan.

BOSTON, October 14.—The plan of reorganization adopted by the Atchison directors was made public to-day in an official circular. It is proposed to issue new one hundred year four per cent general mortgage bonds for $150,000,000 to be secured by mortgage covering all the property of the company, including all securities, representing the control of and ownership in the necessary constituent companies and all the equipment now subject to car trust liens. All the security of the old bonds will be preserved, so that the new bonds will have the collection of existing liens, with the addition of the completion and betterment of properties from the new capital proposed to be raised. The taxes and rentals added to the interest upon that portion of the new bonds which it is proposed to issue at once, make up the annual fixed charge of $7,352,000, or less than seven and one half millions which in the directors' opinion represents the earning power of the system this year.

There is also designed to be issued one hundred year income bonds for $80,000,000, secured interest at the rate of and not exceeding five per cent per annum, non-cumulative, but payable only from and to the extent of such net earnings as may be found after the fixed charges have been met, with the limit of five per cent. This income bond is designed to provide for such reduction of interest upon the present bonds as it is found necessary to make in order to bring the fixed charges of the company within its earning power. Subscriptions are invited at [illegible] for $[illegible],000,000 of the new general four per cent bonds' "absolute" of $300 in cash being entitled to receive a bond consisting of $1000 in new general mortgage four per cents and $100 in new income 5 per cents. Call cash payments are to be made to Kidder, Peabody & Co., who shall hold such money in trust not to be paid to the railroad company until the officially announced plan of reorganization is accepted and a sufficient amount of securities deposited to make the reorganization effective.

The directors state that all interests have been carefully considered, and it is believed that this plan will prove equitable to all. They appeal to all classes of security holders to come forward and protect the property from the disaster of bankruptcy, and state that the non success of this proposition will inevitably result in a foreclosure with all the attendant misfortunes.

The Jury Bribing Conspiracy.

CHICAGO, October 14.—A grand jury was empaneled this morning to hear further evidence in the grand jury bribery [illegible]. Bailiffs Hanks and Salomon, O'T[illegible] and Tom Kavanaugh were called in and testified. It is understood that Kavanaugh and Lawyer Beggs, one of the men on trial for the Cronin murder, made full confession and at any rate this afternoon the grand jury returned indictments against John Graham, the clerk and confidential man for the noted criminal lawyer, A. S. Trude, for complicity in the jury bribing conspiracy, and true bills against the six men indicted on Saturday. Graham was arrested last night.

Said one of the states attorney's assistants to-day: "Bailiffs Salomon and Hanks and Tom Kavanaugh have agreed to tell all they know regarding the plot. We are sure, therefore, of reaching the head and front of the conspiracy."

Graham was the man who was to put up the money with which to bribe the jurors; and it is asserted by Judge Longenecker that the evidence against him is very conclusive. After presenting the indictments the grand jury adjourned for the afternoon, but the states attorney says the end by no means ends with the present indictments, but will be more far-reaching than the most sanguine suppose. Other indictments may be expected in short order.

But little information about Graham could be secured at the office of Lawyer Trude, where Graham has a desk. He had been there twelve or fourteen years. The other occupants of the office were surprised to hear of his connection with the case. It was learned this evening that Graham is the supposed "prominent citizen" whose mysterious arrest last night gave rise to so many surmises. He gave bonds in $10,000 and was released.

Opposed to Federation.

KANSAS CITY, October 14.—Over 300 delegates to the convention of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers to be held in Denver this week passed through the city to-day. Among them was Chief P. M. Arthur. To a reporter he said: "This convention will be the most important ever held by the brotherhood. The question of federation with other labor organizations will be decided. I am opposed to the federation and if the order is not maintained separate and distinct from all other organizations the engineers must look for a new chief. The brotherhood is a peculiarly unique organization and cannot mingle with any other labor organization with benefit to either, in my opinion." A canvass of the three hundred engineers who passed through the city showed an almost unanimous approval of Mr. Arthur's views.

Registration To-day.

The judges of election in the various precincts will sit to-day for the first time as boards of registration. The law requires that they shall sit this year as follows: October 15th and 29th, and November 4th. It should be remembered that there are a number of very important changes in the voting places this year. Roswell and Roswell City have a separate voting place this year, while all of the city west of the Monument creek and south of Roswell City is in a separate ward. All of the part of the city south of Cimmaron street votes in a separate ward. The boards will be in session from 9 a. m. until 9 p. m. of each day in which they sit. The following are the judges and the voting places:

He is [illegible] deposited his money in the office, and being put out by Captain Williams, he became angry and created a disturbance. The porters then put him outside but turning around he broke the glass. Pursuit was given but the boy was too fleet and made his escape.

Gladstone had a series of uninterrupted successes last week, so that now with an adverse majority of three thousand in Brighton, he proposes to contest it. There is now no question but what with a new election the country will vote for home rule, and that nothing but a foreign war can bring the ministry out of its difficulties.

We have received a copy of "Elsie's Trip in the Rocky Mountains," by M[illegible] E. Davis, published by W. R. J[illegible] of New York. This is a very pleasant little story of a visit by Elsie to the "Wonderland" of the Rocky Mountains. It is very beautifully and cleverly illustrated by Miss Mary T. Pratt. The book is on sale in this city and if it sells on its merits, will have a very large circulation.

The interview with Mr. Evarts telegraphed to this country on the Blair bill does not show the statesmanship he usually shows. He thinks the Blair bill is the only chance to correct the race problem in the south. A [illegible] easier and simpler method would be an educational test in the constitution, to be applied to all voters. It might be unjust to take away the right to vote from any one now possessing and exercising this right under the fifteenth amendment, and this is not necessary. The educational test if strictly applied only to those who will become voters will be as quick a corrective as the Blair bill, even if the most [illegible] results are realized from it. The law should be comprehensive and deprive all native born Americans who come to the age of twenty-one after the amendment becomes a law, from voting, unless able to read the constitution and write their own names. It is twenty-four years since the war closed. Another twenty four years under this amendment would leave us a very small illiterate voting population. This law should be also applied to foreign born citizens so that we should no longer have the large ignorant, illiterate vote which now exercises so large a control in our large cities. If an ordinary common school education were necessary for the right to vote it would be an incentive to learn, even among adults, and we should find that the negroes and foreign born [illegible] would have this as an incentive. Under the Blair bill, there would be no incentive and it would be [illegible] impossible to distribute the large amount proposed so that it would have an [illegible] and appreciable effect on the illiteracy of the country. Let us have first the educational test in voting, then education of the masses will surely follow.

The New York "Nation" of October 3rd had what will be to most people a very surprising editorial on agriculture in Vermont and New Hampshire. It seems the state commissioner of agriculture and manufactures in Vermont, realizing that much of the best farming land in Vermont was being abandoned, undertook to encourage immigration by publishing information regarding it. The statements contained in this circular are [illegible]nding. For example, in Windsor county there are 4000 acres of land, which has been good farming land in the past and may be now, offered for one or two dollars an acre. There is probably no government land in the west, considering the advantages of schools, churches, highways and the nearness of communication to great markets that can be bought for anything like this sum. The circular mentions one farm of two hundred acres which can be bought for one hundred dollars, with fair buildings and good soil. The commissioner mentions several other farms in other [illegible] for sale at [illegible] equally reasonable prices. In New Hampshire the condition of the farm lands is much the same. They are gradually being abandoned and are growing up into waste pasturage or into forests. The Vermont commissioner gives as the reason for the abandonment that "Of the people who once occupied these farms, some have died, others have gone west and to the cities, and none have come to fill their places." Of course this is no explanation, because the population of every section of the country either dies or [illegible] in about so many years. The commissioner should have told why others did not [illegible] in to take the places of those who left or died. The Nation raps Senator Morrill very nicely. Since he introduced the Morrill war tariff in the house in 1861, he has been one of two or three of the great leaders in protective tariff legislation in this country. He has always considered the tariff, not only essential to the prosperity of this country but that every part of the country will be prosperous under it. It would be well for Senator Morrill to explain to the Nation why if the protective tariff did not cause the ruin of the agricultural industries of New England, it did not prevent the ruin.

St. Louis in her clamor for the World's Fair sets forth some facts which show that she has a pretty good cause. In the first place, it is situated in the valley of the Mississippi, made famous by De Soto, La Salle and Joliet. Almost more than any point on the Atlantic sea coast except possibly St. Augustine, this valley is associated with the Spanish and French discoveries and explorations. The English discoveries and explorations belong to a later period. The anniversary is the discovery of America by Columbus and therefore the former memories are the ones especially to be cherished. In the address to senators and representatives of the Fifty-first congress St. Louis sets forth the fact that according to the census of 1880, within a day's travel of the three cities, or say within a radius of five hundred miles, there was for New York a population of 20,117,060; for Chicago, 21,798,526; for St. Louis, 23,866,015. It claimed that the census of 1890 would largely increase this proportion for St. Louis and Chicago as against New York. Within the same limits, the miles of railroad given are as follows: For New York, 34,369; Chicago, 54,801; St. Louis, 77,571. It is only fair, however, to say for New York that about half of the territory within this radius is in the Atlantic ocean, while within the five hundred miles radius of Chicago nearly all the lakes are included still of all the inland cities, it must be admitted that St. Louis is the most centrally located and if the fair is not to be given in New York, St. Louis is most deserving of it. It represents a better phase of our civilization than Chicago. The latter is to a great extent an exaggeration of certain American peculiarities so as to make them almost grotesque and its vulgarity and loudness might make an interesting exhibition to our foreign visitors, but not altogether an agreeable one to those who believe that it is not the sole destiny of an American to make [illegible].

Edward Everett Hale in one of the magazines gives this very pleasant sketch of President Harrison:

I saw President Harrison first in the [illegible] chamber and on the [illegible] of the capitol at his inauguration. I saw him next at the magnificent [illegible] party in New York at the Grand C[illegible] Hotel on the 29th of April; and I [illegible] him [illegible]. And I am sure of this: There is in him a [illegible] of [illegible] which you do not find in [illegible] politicians, and which is not often found in [illegible]. Do you not [illegible] how, in the little [illegible] in the days of the [illegible], he [illegible] unexpected and told [illegible] they had never thought of before? Well, that belongs to the imaginative faculty. In the [illegible], while the [illegible] belonging to the new [illegible] of the [illegible] went on, this man sat as if he were [illegible]. He was not looking on any [illegible]; he was looking into [illegible]. Half an hour after I [illegible] behind him [illegible] he delivered his [illegible]. The rain [illegible], but [illegible] rolled [illegible] the paper in his hand, and [illegible] from the [illegible] margin. Yet he [illegible] as if wholly [illegible] of the [illegible], and [illegible] that speech like Napoleon at the [illegible]. Rain or no rain—what [illegible]? His [illegible] was to say how the [illegible] should be [illegible] at [illegible] he sat through five hours of the [illegible] you ever heard. [illegible] than were spoken there are not to be [illegible]. [illegible] him [illegible]? Yes, in a [illegible]; but, all the time he listened, dreaming, if you [illegible], fancying, [illegible]. At the end of that [illegible] I think he had a fuller and [illegible] of what was in that theatre than any [illegible] there. And then, after the [illegible] he was called up. He [illegible]. The [illegible] was entirely ex[illegible] in form. It was [illegible] at times, it was [illegible]. It held the tired audience as only [illegible] can; and [illegible] alive for it, glad of the [illegible], more awake to all that it had to [illegible]. So quickened were they, [illegible] that [illegible] one of [illegible] will tell you now that all the speaking of the [illegible]. For the end of a [illegible] is what [illegible] it a victory or a failure. Now, here he is [illegible] not with a picked audience of a [illegible] but with a [illegible], laughing [illegible] or four [illegible] Portsmouth [illegible] who want to see a [illegible]. Once [illegible], into the [illegible] is [illegible] at ease and natural, laughs with [illegible] who laugh as he [illegible] with those who shake [illegible]. All this is [illegible]. Old John Adams or his [illegible] Martin Van Buren or [illegible] or Polk or Johnson, or any of that [illegible] as well have tried to fly as to [illegible] with such simplicity, sympathy and [illegible] into the life of [illegible] who are [illegible] him.

O[illegible] Improv[illegible]

LONDON, October 14. Great real estate owners like the duke of Westminster are opposing with all the means in their power the improvements involving [illegible] ground in the heart of the city, the widening of some streets and the [illegible]ing of new thoroughfares to relieve the congested state of some of the main avenues of traffic. A new outlet from the Strand to Holborn will involve the demolition of a line of buildings, not very ornamental to be sure, but yielding large rentals, and the owners are frantic with indignation at what they do not hesitate to call open robbery.

The amount of compensation in such cases is always unsatisfactory, and it is certain that the scheme for street improvements will bring upon the heads of the council a perfect avalanche of law suits. Visitors to London, as well as residents, will hail with joy the widening of the Strand, but the owners of the buildings there are much concerned at the threatened obstruction of all business while the improvements are being made, and the consequent loss of rents.

S[illegible] Market

NEW YORK, October 14.—The stock market was exceptionally feverish and unsettled and in portions weak to-day, although the general run of railroad stocks were well supported and a few displayed undoubted strength. The industrial stocks were the weak spot in market and they served to check the advancing tendency. The market continued feverish and unsettled the entire day and finally closed rather heavy, though the final prices are fractionally higher than those of Saturday in [illegible] instances. Atchison is up 3½, Jersey Central 2 and C. C. C. and St. Louis 1½, while sugar refinery is down 6½ and cotton oil 2½.

SOUTH AMERICAN TRADE.

WHAT THE DELEGATES TO THE GREAT CONFERENCE THINK

The Spanish-American Countries Are Developing Fast, but Their Trade Goes to Europe—English, French, German and Dutch Investments There.

W[illegible] last week [illegible] and Central A[illegible] city attending the [illegible] heard the [illegible] industri[illegible] out exception [illegible] was [illegible] of [illegible] do the Am[illegible] great countri[illegible] tment. We s[illegible]

The United States has [illegible] half the population of the [illegible] place, and [illegible] ture, progress, [illegible] art and material resources. We do well to cultivate the acquaintance of our neighbors to the south, who are just now blossoming and blooming both industrially and politically. The delegates from these southern countries are now seeing what we somewhat narrowly term America. They are visiting our cities and towns, our manufacturing establishments and our farms. Doubtless they will see much and be greatly interested, but with some curiosity concerning the commerce and industries of their own countries I made inquiry of one of the most intelligent of the delegates from South America, one who has traveled from Patagonia to British America.

"This is a great country, a great country," said he, "but we have some great countries, too. You people do not know us; we do not know you. It is not so easy to get from our country to yours. We go often to Paris, to London, even to Berlin, but rarely to New York or New Orleans which are much nearer. Just now the English appear to be closer to us than any other people. They are investing in our railways, our mines, our stock farms, our steamships, our factories. They pour out money like water for all our securities, corporation as well as governmental. There is apparently no limit to the confidence they have in our future, as there seems to be no bottom to their purse. Will they lose on some of their investments? Ah, sir (and the delegate twisted his black mustache and shrugged his shoulders), no one can tell that. Some have already lost; others are likely to lose. But, no matter. Is it not so in all ventures? And if the English and French lose some money in our enterprises, do they not get all of our [illegible]?

"We think you people of the United States slow and [illegible], because you do not come down and invest with us and trade with us as do the English and Fr[illegible]. For [illegible], I was talking not long ago with your consul at Mar[illegible]bo, Venezuela. For a long time he endeavored to persuade capitalists of the United States to invest in a [illegible] railway from Maracaibo to Merida, traversing the rich coffee regions of the Cordilleras. But his suggestions bore no fruit, except in Paris, where a company was organized to build the railway. The Venezuelan government guaranteed 7 per cent. interest on the capital and granted other extraordinary privileges. The company has made a very nice thing of it, and you Americans might just as well have had the profit, for it is an actual fact that it was the suggestion of your excellent consul translated into French and republished in Paris, which led the French [illegible] into their highly successful venture.

"By the way," continued this delegate, "Venezuela is a very interesting and prosperous country, as no doubt Dr. Francisco Antonio Silva, the delegate, would be glad to tell you if he could speak English. There is one district of Venezuela in which the breeding of goats is the chief industry. In another district nearly all of the inhabitants find employment in gathering the beans of the dividivi tree, which are crushed and distilled for the large quantities of tannin which they contain. In still another district many of the people earn a livelihood gathering gums, [illegible] and orchids from the forests. Petroleum, asphalt, gold and silver are some of the treasures to be found in the earth in that country, and the forests contain vast quantities of mahogany.

"American engineers stand high in the estimation of the people of South America. Since Meiggs constructed [illegible] wonderful railways in Peru our people have thought nothing too difficult for the genius of the United States engineer to overcome. In San Salvador, a little republic of which I dare say you have heard but little in this country, an American engineer, Mr. Brannan, is doing [illegible] work in railway building. American engineers are employed on many works in Chili, Peru and the Argentine Republic, and an American company is building a railway in Honduras. Probably it will not be a dozen years before railway communication will be established direct from New York and Chicago, via the city of Mexico, with all the central and South American capitals. A new era has dawned in our life, and it is the era of rapid progress. We also have much confidence in the completion of the Nicaragua canal, now that an American company has earnestly taken hold of that great project.

"It is my belief that this congress and the visit we are to make to your manufacturing centers, will greatly stimulate commerce between the United States and our southern countries, even if nothing more tangible than a more intimate acquaintanceship comes from it. I am sure if Americans knew the opportunities for money making that are open to them, in South America especially, they would be more swift in taking advantage of them. We have rice fields in which the grain is thrashed out in mortars with stone pestles, simply be[illegible] the people have not the money with which to buy hulling machinery. Much of our wheat and other small grain is harvested with primitive appliances, because we have no machines at hand to do the work with. There are mines which promise rich returns.

"Already the people of the Argentine Republic owe a debt of gratitude to you Americans. It was from your country that the first advances [illegible] in improving the breeds of sheep and horses down there. The pioneer in that business was a Mr. Eels, of Vermont, whose merinoes have already greatly improved the quality of the wool on many big farms. A man from Michigan, Mr. Sumner, arrived in the Argentine not long ago with a herd of magnificent Hereford cattle. Your horsemen may be interested in knowing that the Argentinos are infatuated with American trotting horses, which find a ready market there. Fabulous prices are paid for [illegible] animals by [illegible] of Buenos Ayres, but I am sorry to say that when last in that city I was [illegible] been shown [illegible] Yankee horse traders [illegible] sold them had [illegible] and [illegible]

[illegible]

Aires, [illegible] them [illegible] Yankee Americans [illegible] port [illegible] vain for the [illegible] country. While the trade of [illegible] with the United States is growing rapidly, a [illegible] Great Britain and the whole [illegible] Germans, Englishmen, Frenchmen and Italians.

"Every time I sit down to dinner here and drink a cup of coffee I think of the fact that you are the greatest coffee consuming country in the world, while the Central and South American countries represented in this congress are the coffee growers for the whole universe. Therefore if we should cover the coffee reach a better understanding of our reciprocal trade relations, it would be most fitting. I am told that the people of the United States consume more coffee each year than Germany, Great Britain, Austria and France combined. Four-fifths of your requirements are produced in Brazil and Venezuela, and nearly all of the remaining fifth in Guatemala, Mexico, San Salvador, Columbia, Costa Rica and Hayti. Brazil alone supplies one-half of what is regarded as the average annual coffee crop of the world. I believe American enterprise and American machinery are needed in this industry. Why, the best Brazilian plantations depend almost entirely upon the hoe. They use the plow very little. The coffee farmers know little or nothing about conserving the soil. It is never enriched, and the art of rotation in crops, so commonly practiced by your farmers, is almost unknown to ours. Coffee is, in many sections, the only crop, and when disaster comes to that, as it does sometimes come, both planter and merchant find themselves on the verge of ruin.

"During a winter's residence in Cuba I became [illegible] familiar with the coffee industry there. It is a wonder to me that a greater number of Americans do not engage in that business.

"All over South and Central America there are fine opportunities for your capital and your men of ability and energy. Take, for instance, the Argentine Republic. American trade with that country is confined chiefly to lumber and petroleum, though something is being done in agricultural implements and machinery. American pianos, cook stoves, beer and salt and canned fish are also finding a market there. But in the whole of the Argentine Republic there is not one distinctive American importing house. A number of wealthy firms sell American goods, but they are either English or German houses, which do business with the United States simply because it pays them to do so. Consul Baker, of Buenos Ayres, told me last fall that of more than a million dollars' worth of [illegible] imported by the Argentinos last year just a thousand dollars' worth came from the United States. Your country sends great quantities of [illegible] to Europe, and Europe sends cheese to South America. So with hams. You export hams by the ship load, but you do not export to us. Of 216 tons of hams shipped to Buenos Ayres last year only thirteen tons came direct from the United States, though nearly all of the imported hams were grown and cured in your country and exported to England of whom our people purchased.

"You ask me how American trade in Central and South America can be best promoted. My reply is, by the establishment of regular lines of steamers between your ports and ours, giving certain and rapid communication. That is the first step to be taken, and it must be taken by the people of the United States. It is easier for us to cross the Atlantic to London or Paris than to come to New York or New Orleans. The Europeans have sought us out with their steamships, and their commercial agents, Englishmen, Frenchmen, Germans and Dutchmen are prominent in the commerce and finance of many of our countries. It is not yet too late for the American if he will only bestir himself."

Restoration of Worms Cathedral.

London [illegible].

The Cathedral of Worms is to be restored. The question has been locally discussed for the past three years, and, although experts who were consulted agreed that there was serious mischief going on which was endangering the structure, they differed as to the cause. Thereupon, the dean, Mr. Fehr, took the matter in hand by causing a number of faulty places to be uncovered and then published the result and his opinion in pamphlet. His argument appearing unanswerable the building committee have determined to go to work at once, and have called in Professor Freiherr von Schmidt of Munich, the architect of the recently restored church of St. Catherine, in the neighboring little town of Oppenheim, also on the Rhine. Professor von Schmidt has been requested to submit by May 15 next a complete set of plans of the cathedral in its present state, along with another set showing his suggestions for the completion of the structure, together with the estimate of cost. Most of our readers need not be reminded that the building is one of the most interesting cathedrals [illegible] style [illegible] height of [illegible] feet in the nave; it has four towers, two domes of [illegible] and abounds with rich carvings. [illegible] the [illegible] existing portions will be confined to necessary repairs. Worms will [illegible]

Tickled the Lion's Throat

London Globe.

On Tuesday night an occurrence took place at Wombwell's show which caused great excitement among a large number of persons assembled. Marcel Orenzo, lion tamer and performer, was in a cage with five lions, and when about to place his face between the jaws of one of [illegible] attempt [illegible] the animal closing its jaws inflicted a severe wound on each cheek, which had to be dressed at the infirmary. Orenzo was very cool, and repeated the performance later on.

[illegible]

Religious [illegible] Meetings Which Were [illegible] the Week.

[illegible]

[illegible] and [illegible] tomorrow.

The Presbytery will be in session [illegible] the greater part of the day [illegible] It is to be [illegible] this evening when the Synod of Colorado opens. About sixty-five ministers will be present, the R. E. Fluid of Cheyenne preaching the opening sermon. The synod will be in session until Thursday evening and during tomorrow and Thursday the Synodical Woman's Board of Missions will meet.

An Exciting Time

About 10 o'clock last night the employes of the Rock Island lunch counter and depot hotel all happened to leave the lunch room at the same time. The room was only deserted for a few minutes, but during the time a thief entered the room and gathering up the automatic cash register left out. Mr. Hart, the clerk, returned a few moments later, and discovering the loss, gave an alarm. Accompanied by Mr. McChesney and another employe, they started out into the dark, armed with two revolvers and a lantern. After a short search the register was found near the Lorette academy partly concealed in the dead grass. The contents were found intact as the persons had evidently been too close upon the thief to permit of the machine being broken open. After securing the boodle they decided if possible to take the thief and began a search among the cars on the side track back of Dr. Solly's residence. Two of them walked along the side of the cars, one on each side and one on top. They had not proceeded far when a man rose up. He was ordered to halt, and for reply began firing a revolver at his pursuers. They returned the fire but none of the shots took effect, and the thief then escaped by running across the Antlers park and then among the cars in the Rio Grande switch yards. A perfect fusilade was kept up for some time. The police scoured the country in the rear of the Rio Grande freight depot but the thief had escaped in the darkness.

At Falcon on Saturday evening a collision of two D., T. & Ft. W. engines resulted in the serious injury of several persons. The particulars of the accident as gleaned by a Denver paper are that as Engine 63 was running south it had orders to meet a special drawn by Engine 152 at Falcon. No. 152 arrived at the meeting point first, and after doing some switching drew up on the side track, but the engineer misjudging the distance, got his engine on the main track. No. 63 came along and crashed into the extra. Fireman Clark and Engineer [illegible] of the regular train were both seriously hurt. Clark so badly as to be thought in danger. The conductor of the same train was also injured. The damage to the engines was not very serious. All of the injured parties were taken to Denver. The Fort Worth was also reported to have had a slight accident near Denver yesterday, resulting in a delay of the regular trains.

Learned In[illegible] and Early Rail[illegible]

London Globe.

In the archives of the Nurnberg railway at Furth which was the first line constructed in Germany, a protest against railroads has been found drawn up by the Royal college of Bavarian doctors. In it occurs the following passage: "Travel in carriages drawn by a locomotive ought to be forbidden in the interest of public health. The rapid movement can not fail to produce among the passengers the mental affection known as delirium furiosum. Even if travelers are willing to incur the risk the government should at least protect the public. A single glance at a locomotive passing rapidly is sufficient to cause the same cerebral [illegible] consequently it is absolutely necessary [illegible] each side of the railway."

A [illegible] party of visitors in the city the past few days has been composed of M[illegible] Robert Young, of Pueblo, E. L. and W. H. Yo[illegible], Miss May Stet[illegible] and Mrs. Nellie Southerland, all of Florissant, Colorado.

AGENT FOR AUSTIN BLUFF LOTS. The finest suburban residence location combining view of mountain and plain in the state. Beautiful parks, overgrown with large pine trees; unequalled as a health location; pure air, pure water, no smoke, no dust, plenty of sunshine. Lots in this beautiful suburb are large size, from one to four acres, being thus well adapted for fine residences. Only twenty minutes drive from center of our city. A motor line is already projected and will no doubt be built this coming season. Do not fail to examine this locality before purchasing. Carriage always in attendance to show property.

ALSO AGENT for the most desirable lots in Boulder Heights Addition. We handle only first class properties, and can guarantee satisfaction in every case. Buy only the best.
